

Radek Riedl Senior Associate

Radek Riedl specialises in intellectual property including effective enforcement of industrial property rights, information technology, commercial contract law and competition matters in general.

With respect to intellectual property Radek is involved in particular in issues of client protection strategy regarding IP rights, enforcement of IP rights, parallel imports and other matters relating to industrial property, domain names, and domain disputes.

In contract law he focuses, in addition to standard types of contracts, in particular on relationships involved in the development, licensing and protection of technologies and the related know-how and contracts concluded remotely by electronic means. In contract law Radek also specialises in FMCG and the setting of contractual relationships in the food industry.

Currently he deals also with administrative matters associated with licensing proceedings before the Council for Radio and Television Broadcasting.

In recently years, Radek has frequently provided legal advice to a number of important Czech and foreign clients in the above-mentioned areas.

Prior to joining our law firm, Radek worked at a law firm in Zlín. In 2008, he studied at Rostock University.
