

Radomír Hromada

Associate

Radomír Hromada specialises primarily in public procurement, contract law, administrative law, and public sector and regulation.

His practice focuses primarily on legal advice on the procurement and implementation of construction and other investment projects, projects implemented from subsidies, and on representing contracting authorities and contractors in administrative proceedings before the Office for the Protection of Competition.

His experience in providing legal services comes mainly from practising as an attorney-at-law, and prior to joining our law firm he worked in other law firms based in Prague. Radomír also gained valuable experience at the Ministry of Transport of the Czech Republic and at the Office for the Protection of Competition, where he worked before practising as an attorney-at-law.
